

Empowering the Potential of Original Greatness

Transpersonal leadership is a spiritual practice that begins with the leader becoming a well being. This practice involves purifying intentions, honoring what is sacred, and believing in sustainability by recognizing the potential within every individual. In the process of becoming a well being, the practitioner reestablishes the connection with Original Greatness, an innate knowing part of Spirit. The practitioner sets an example for others to follow by practicing Eco-awareness, demonstrating the principles of Eco-Unity, and encouraging others to reestablish the connection with Original Greatness to become a well being. The transpersonal leader brings innate knowing to the surface, first on the personal level which radiates light into the potentiator's environment, while simultaneously contributing to collective awareness. Eco-Unity development is applied with acts of compassion.

The transpersonal leader has been initiated with spiritual transformation, first on a personal level, and then applies true leadership with the practice of Eco-Unity in everyday interactions. With pure intention, right thinking comes into play, resulting in right action, with an open heart full of compassion. Through this practice greater understanding is achieved. Believing in the possible person initiates a deeper awareness of our relationship with each other, serving a greater purpose, which is our place in Eco-Unity. Pure intentions are commenced by becoming an observer, or becoming the watchman at the door of thought. The practice Eco-Unity involves paying attention to thoughts that surface, and only accepting those aligned with Eco-Unity. In relationship interactions the potentiator has the opportunity to practice sincere listening with an open heart. With an open heart an awareness of our connectedness is established, bringing deeper meaning to everyday interactions with others.

I experienced deep inner peace from this practice. My desire is always to return home where I feel relaxed within my personal sacred space. Practicing Eco-Unity awareness I suddenly felt at home no matter where I was. I felt a deep relaxing peace, with the comfortable feeling of being at home, feeling free to express my authentic feelings, moment by moment as I realized that sacred space comes with presence. This week I felt at home in traffic, at work, in the store, in public, a neighbors's house, and even in the court house. Spiritual awareness is recognizing and honoring what is sacred, including the ability to believe in the possible person, knowing there is Original Greatness within every individual. Awareness facilitates Eco-Unity. Honoring the practice of potentiating Original Greatness within others becomes a responsibility of the transpersonal leader. With wisdom comes responsibility which requires us to practice what we know as the deeper truth.

Believing in sustainability is to recognize the potential for well being in every individual and community. A healthy world begins with the healthy individuals, possesses healthy intentions and thoughts, by allowing only what is pure center focus. Self-awareness leads to eco-awareness, which will reveal opportunities to construct meaning from interactions within relationships. The transpersonal leader is in a continual process of learning and discovery by remaining open. Inner peace is developed during this practice, which allows us to accept the unpredictability of life. Acceptance of the present moment strengthens our faith in trusting the process, and radiates with the awareness of unlimited possibilities for full self-actualization to occur.

0Gaining this freedom can be a struggle while learning to overcome habitual patterns of thinking. Inner knowing offers guidance to follow through with the practice. Spirit innately desires to return to Original Greatness. Soul innately seeks for ways to express Original Greatness. Spirit and Soul merge with intention towards finding ethical approaches to draw out human potential. Transpersonal leadership as a potentiating art empowers others as the truth is demonstrated through practice. Compassion changes lives. Kind words and deeds are worthless without sincerity. True meaning and purpose are channeled through the heart. There is a scripture referring to this as “faith without works is dead.” (James 2:26) The potentiator’s intention is to heal relationships with each other, and with our planet through the practice of compassion, and honoring what is sacred in the possible person.

Original Greatness is original goodness that is within everything that God made. “And God saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good.” (Gen 1:31) Believing in the potential for goodness is the foundation of Eco-Unity. Divine is our connection to all things. Divine goodness makes integration possible. Pure intention, mutual respect, with kind consideration is the collaboration of potential that becomes something beautiful and real, Eco-Unity.

Conscious living is practiced by remembering the difference between our life, and our life situation. Life is eternal. Life situations are a temporal experience. Wellness of being knows this truth without ceasing to practice Eco-Unity in every relationship. Life is Spirit. Spirit is the Original Greatness in the possible person. The transpersonal leader contributes healing energies that work on all levels, intellectual, emotional, physical, social and collective. Intentions purify thought and emotion with a sense of gratitude for the goodness life has to offer, and the result has a positive effect on the quality of experience and in life situations. Focused intention works like magic moving from thought to manifestation on the personal level, while radiating light for others to recognize and connect with the current of Original Greatness. Gratitude is an essential aspect of potentiating energy that is revealed in our interaction with others.

Providing a space for authentic expression is shared through a simple smile or through sharing deep feelings. Developing Eco-awareness is a process of sharing our authenticity, and of having faith in infinite possibilities with an innovative confidence. The sense of purpose is to develop the capacity to empower others, to develop a balanced Eco-Unity society. With pure intentions and compassion warmth penetrates every barrier. Compassion can only be expressed through a pure heart, which draws others to well being. The result of our labor may take time, patience, a season, or a succession of seasons.

Tilling the ground is self work. Planting seeds is done by demonstrating compassion and kindness. Watering is done with the spirit of gratitude. Sunshine is the recognition of beauty. Inner light shines outward, giving life to all it touches. Weeding out thoughts that are not aligned with Original Greatness will protect what is sacred. The harvest benefits everyone with a balanced ecological system manifested as an Eco-unified society. This harvest of goodness is a reason to celebrate life with greater purpose. Every interaction and relationship is an opportunity to express the awareness of our connection with each other with pure intentions and expressions of goodness with an open heart.

Balance is created in Eco-Unity through heartfelt giving and receiving with gratitude. Transpersonal leadership demonstrates truth as a practice. “The best sermon ever preached was the truth practiced” as my mother has often said. Listening with readiness to learn develops into the capacity to empower others, with openness to new ways of doing things through creativity. Contemplating questions with curiosity develops into awareness of potential. Eco-Unity constructs meaning from everything we think, say, and do. The vibrant collaboration of potential is established through our relationships with each other, and with our connection to nature and Earth as one ecosystem. Personal transformation develops into higher levels of consciousness, leading to intellectual maturity, emotional stability, spiritual fulfillment, physical well being, and social unity. Creative solutions are abundant when souls are connected to the spiritual current of collective awareness, bringing to the surface greater possibilities that are aligned with ecological wisdom.

The spiritual practice of transpersonal leadership begins with the leader becoming a well being, with purified intentions, honoring what is sacred, believing in sustainability, and recognizing and believing in the possible person. The transpersonal leader believes in Original Greatness within every individual, and knows this is the core of spiritual inner knowing that seeks well being. Practicing Eco-Unity brings deeper meaning into every relationship and interaction. The demonstration provided by the transpersonal leader encourages others to become a well being, to connect with authentic expression, and to fulfill the desire for wholeness. Through authentic creative expression lives are touched with the desire to partake in Eco-Unity practice, and contribute to the collective awareness of Eco-Unity development. With pure intentions every person has the potential to contribute healing to the world.
